Robots do not pay taxes Credit: www.nanowerk.com

Some lightworkers, when they contemplate serving the Divine Mother as a financial wayshower, may think that they need to "learn how it's done."

If that's a generic term, I agree. If it's a felt need to operate as we used to in the old Third, I think I'd demur.

The prevailing business models are what got us into this mess in the first place, all in the service of the people who controlled the economy. Why in Heaven's name would anyone want to imitate them? Surely that simply prolongs the crisis.

We're arguing for a heart-centered approach on this blog and we probably won't find a business model for that among those the masters of business held out to us from pulpits like the Harvard Business School or Business Week.

Let's look at what happened in the germinal 1990s.

I'll be ignoring some elements of the economy that doomed it, such as the derivatives crisis, which was a scam and has resulted in a debt so large that it probably can never be liquidated. I'm focusing on the work force.

The fall of the ordinary worker started in the 1980s when waves of mergers and acquisitions tore many companies apart. Then a series of corrupt schemes like junk bonds, the dot.com bubble and later the mortgage-foreclosure scam sapped America of jobs and profitability and condemned the middle class to ongoing indebtedness and a lack of prospects.

But what really finished workers off was computerization or automation. That led to jobless recoveries from what were considered to be “recessions,” the loss of careers, the demise of benefits plans, and many other forms of hardship for obsolescent workers who bore the brunt and costs of automation.

It was a double whammy because robots don't pay taxes so the very same class that was deprived of its livelihood was also asked to bear the increased tax burden that resulted. More people off work meant more call on government services and that meant higher taxes, all borne by the people who were under assault from automation.

The rise of outsourcing to low-wage countries completed the defeat of the worker. Now people hired themselves out as consultants without benefits, at low wages. Many held down two or three part-time jobs. And all the time their debts mounted.

Companies took a Just-in-Time attitude towards their workers:

"'Companies are managing their workers as they manage their inventories of unsold goods,' said Leslie McNulty, research director of the United Food and Commercial Workers Union. 'They are trying to keep both sets of inventories -- employees and merchandise -- as low as possible.'" (1)

Let's look here at the impact of automation on it. Later I'd like to look at the philosophy behind that mess, which I came to think of as Social or Business Darwinism. Please consider this an attempt at consciousness raising in the area of financial wayshowing.

One business analyst asked the $64,000 question in 1991: “What is a computer for, if not to save labor?” (2) Exactly. A computer is a labor-saving - or labor-destroying - device.

Fortune Magazine described how extensive the “labor saving” was.

“[Computers are taking] over progressively more of the work that can be routinized ... from guiding machines that make things to transmitting information within the organization or across its boundaries. Bingo, you've got flexible manufacturing, programmed trading, and point-of-purchase terminals wired into the supplier's factory.” (3)

I've said on occasion that the younger generation has never known a permanent, full-time job with benefits. This is the era in which those jobs were decimated.

Because automation created a buyer's market for labor, companies could ditch their benefits plans along with their permanent, full-time workers - and they did in droves.

Business Week in June 1993 noted that “companies are often using outside consultants, many of whom were laid off earlier, to lower their costs.” (4) In that same article they suggest that “even when companies have work that needs to be done, they often use temporary workers to avoid paying the cost of benefits.” (5)

Employees were fired and hired back on as consultants, without the benefits they once enjoyed and only for as many hours as were deemed to be absolutely necessary. Society embraced "just-in-time" employment. The cost of benefits plans now came to be called "the burden rate."

I remember how afraid I was to leave my job at the time. Electronic Engineering Times in 1991 suggested that the feeling was general: "Disgruntled employees don't dare leave their posts in 1991. There might not be another job down the road. So they stay and gripe." (6)

Said another business analyst: "Fear is rampant in the workplace." (7) I remember how that was. We all led lives of quiet desperation.

One banking executive suggested a formula for estimating when employees should be replaced:

"Theoretically every time you make a $10,000 investment on technology you should have replaced one employee." (8)

Automation replaced hundreds and hundreds of thousands of workers. And, said the Financial Post, "most of the jobs lost are lost forever." (9)

No one was safe. Here are some of the occupational activities that became extinct, diminishing the number of jobs available to the younger generation:

- Storing, filing and retrieving;
- Monitoring, analyzing, accounting and reporting;
- Middleman work such as booking, selling, ticketing, dispensing, shipping, and receiving;
- Making transfers of money, mail, stocks, or information;
- Issuing information policies that consumers can just as well request from a machine.

This list grew as "systems" got better at doing our work. No occupation, not even computer programmer, was immune from what is essentially a social virus.

What was usually not said was that not only jobs were lost, but whole careers. Workers moved from one new career to the next, trying to stay one step ahead of the computer. One group moved to the next occupation even while employees in that occupation were moving to another.

Travel agents might become medical-lab assistants. Lab assistants might become hospital unit coordinators. Unit coordinators might become travel agents, all running in circles, trying to stay ahead of the machine which seemed to be just a few paces behind them.

"Social Darwinism is respectable again," one analyst wryly observed. (10) According to Social Darwinism, not just nature, but society also, is red in tooth and claw. The fittest survive and the weakest go to the wall. Such a philosophy has no truck or trade with the divine qualities. Indeed this era of the 90s was the high point of Social Darwinism - or Business Darwinism - as a social philosophy.

Business Week described how bleak the picture had become:

“As companies large and small embrace new technologies and eliminate jobs, millions of workers are finding that their old careers are becoming obsolete. In just the past year, even as the [U.S.] economy grew by some 2.6%, more than 500,000 clerical and technical positions disappeared, probably forever. And better information systems are eliminating the need for lots of middle managers.

“It's no wonder that so many Americans are distressed: they see their paycheques lagging inflation, and they worry about joining their families and friends in the ranks of the unemployed.” (11)

Said one business executive in 1991: “Whole levels of middle management have been wiped out and will not be replaced.” (12)

Added Business Week in 1993:

“Corporations have been laying off huge numbers of middle managers because the re-engineering and technology make it possible to do without them. In the old corporate hierarchies, middle management's function was to transmit information from the field or factory to the executive suite and relay commands from the corner office back to the troops. Databases and computer networks now do the job faster, better, and for less.” (13)

Out with the Old and In with the New - Part 2/2

Who's winning? The lure of the computer lulled everyone to sleep

(Concluded from Part 1.)

For the longest time, business analysts were calling the automation revolution a cyclical recession. But they could not account for the “jobless recoveries.” Said Business Week in 1993: “This is the first time in the postwar period that [manufacturing employment] has failed to bounce back in the wake of a recession.” (1)

At last it became impossible to ignore the huge job and career losses that happened after each “dip” in the economy. These were not cyclical recessions; they were structural deconstructions of work and the work force, the shedding of whole occupations which, once shed, did not return.

Said another source:

“Some critics ... call it deconstruction rather than reconstruction -- jobs are a casualty at every point in the delivery chain. ...

“[International trade consultant Patrick] Couling says the cost-cutting electronic revolution is one reason why economic recovery in the U.S. has yielded 3.5 million fewer jobs than past recoveries. Employers are investing in systems, not workers.

“The fallout can be devastating. But it is more of a disaster to do nothing. It is a case of damned if you do and damned if you don’t.” (2)

“Growth without jobs,” it was called. The impact caused the growth movement of the 1970s and 80s to shrivel on the vine. I think this business analyst pretty well summed the situation up: “Stop finding yourself, pal: It's time to get back to work -- if you still have a job, that is.” (3)

When I woke up in 1990 to the devastation that the computer was causing, I tried to warn my provincial premier, whom I knew personally, the head of the British Columbia Federation of Labour, and anyone else who would listen. No one wanted to hear about it. No effective voice that I knew of could gain the attention of people so fascinated with what the computer could do that they allowed the drama to unfold without taking effective action.

Today's generation of younger folk have never enjoyed the kind of security that the older generation enjoyed during the 1950s through the 1970s. Worse, they don't even know what it was like to live in a system that provided pensions, benefits plans, supposed job security, a social safety net, and so on.

It's our job as financial wayshowers to change that situation, to come up with a business model that honors the worker, does not overwork people, and provides for their unemployment, illness, disability, and retirement. A world that works is a world that knows that business is not about the enrichment of the few but the needs of the many.

So, financial wayshowers, if you'd permit me to say it, perhaps don't drive the car looking in the rear-view mirror. There's nothing to be learned from the past except what not to do. Consult your heart. That's the new paradigm.

Killing for Market Share: The Old Paradigm in Business - Part 1/2

*It's eat or be eaten in business.

As financial wayshowers, one of our tendencies is to look to see how people did business in the past and then to borrow from them.

But we have to consider that those who went before succumbed to some pretty shallow and often corrupt business practices and have very little in the way of philosophy to bequeath to us. My own suggestion to financial wayshowers is to forget how business in the past operated and to carve out new paths, based on love, compassion and integrity.

The article that follows was written some time ago. I began to craft it anew and realized that the way I'd written it then was far clearer and more precise than the way I was recrafting it now.

What's missing here is an appreciation of the extent to which the Illuminati owned the economy and were working it for their own enrichment and the subjugation of the working and middle classes. While I suspected collusion in business, I had no idea that everything - business, politics, religion, medicine, education, the military, etc. - was permeated by Illuminati control.

I'd like to look here at the philosophy I call "Business Darwinism." Business Darwinism is the pseudo-scientific application of the principles of Charles Darwin to business.

Business theorists who followed its tenets represented business as a struggle for existence in which only the fittest survived. The business world was a jungle, red in tooth and claw, and the business that succeeded was the one that could pounce first.

"In that modern-day tribe called a corporation," said a Dow Jones ad in Business Week, "it's still the survival of the fittest." (1)

Firms rose and fell because "it's evolution. Successful firms will grow big, and smaller ones will shrivel and die." (2) This doctrine was held to be synonymous with economics itself, as if it were an invisible law of the universe.

Megafarms, for instance, many of them in Florida and California, favored letting the weak go under. "It sounds cruel, but that's what economics is all about," says John Zonneveld Jr., who had a 10,000-head operation in Laton, Calif. (3)

"Social Darwinism is respectable again," Report on Business Magazine observed in 1991. (4) The modern firm had to be ready to turn on a dime, downsize their workforce, locate overseas, and do anything else to see that no one else ate their lunch.

The sense of urgency that business leaders saw all around them in the nanosecond nineties moved some to declare that "a major shakeup is coming soon -- one in which only the strongest, best prepared companies will survive." (5) This was the decade of the major global meltdown, the first in which computer technology combined with global telecommunications to make world trade wars possible in real-time.

"If management really wants to be around in the nineties, something has to be done. We no longer are just competing with the company down the street. Today, the name of the game is global competition. Survival is what many businesses are facing." (6)

The Nineties were considered to be the first decade of true global competition and global economic warfare.

"Today's manufacturing market is a truly world-wide market where only the world class manufacturers will survive. ... To achieve the dramatic results needed for world class competition, dramatic changes are needed in manufacturing philosophies and techniques." (7)

The business page read like the sports page. Where nations once squared off against each other, now global businesses went toe-to-toe. Sometimes America lost ground:

"While internecine strife hogged attention at home, the U.S. retreated in the far more important war of global competition. Biggest winner: Japan, where companies stay in fighting trim without having to listen for predator's footsteps." (8)

At other times America surged forward: With the rise of low- cost capital, the U.S. "scored a victory in its battle to become more competitive in the global economy." (9) The successful survivors were lean and mean. "What is GE Capital's edge?" asked Business Week. "Most important is a culture that successfully blends an entrepreneurial spirit with the hard-driving and intensely competitive focus of its parent." (10)

This point of view supplanted the liberal tone of discussions from the Seventies and early Eighties. Where once caring and commitment had been praised, now lip-service was paid to the would-be-masters of the universe who overpowered, dominated and controlled. (11) In the service of market share, global firms were pictured slugging it out and fighting glorious battles.

Business Darwinists often described the competitive process as a game like boxing, hardball, or football. For example:

“For much of the last decade, U.S. companies have been maligned as wimps that lacked the grit and gumption to stand up to Japanese and European rivals. As they cowered in the big shadows thrown off by the Siemenses and Matsuhitas of the world, American firms caved in to quarterly earnings pressures and skimmed on long-term technology investments. But lately, the derisive criticism has begun to ring hollow.

“Domestic corporations, perceived by many as the world's weaklings, have put on new muscle and become industrial warriors capable of blowing away even the most intimidating global competitors.” (12)

Facing stiff competition from Germany and Japan, the nation was encouraged by tales of American companies muscling their rivals, aceing them, trouncing them, and leaving them quaking. (13) American firms were depicted blindsiding their opponents, blitzing them, and giving them palpitations. (14) Like IBM and Microsoft they were "fighting tooth and nail [for] market position." (15) Like U.S. Surgical, they "took the market by storm and left once-dominant [competitors] stunned." (16)

Those who toughened up were congratulated for "[getting] the jump on the competition" and "[knocking their] socks off." (17) Examples ranged from the local to the international, from companies to nations. The supermarket down the block "squares off" with its union. (18) An international computer maker "goes toe-to-toe" with its international rivals for its share of the world market. (19) The American nation enjoys enhanced prestige because of its "new economic muscle." (20)

When the business press talks about life in the global ring, it classifies companies into fast and powerful. Nissan and Toyota are powerful. Europe is fast. The Japanese carmakers are characterized as "heavyweights," facing "a leaner, meaner Europe Inc.", which is "just what's needed to fend [them] off." (21) Hewlett-Packard is powerful and also fancy. Attacked by Japanese clone-makers, HP is eulogized for "slugging back" and "packing a powerful punch." (22)

"By 1989, more than 60 Far Eastern clones were closing in on HP's market. In a lightning-fast response, the Silicon Valley company struck back with cheap and technologically advanced machines. 'We hit them with a left, then a right hook,' says Richard Watts, Hewlett Packard's director of worldwide sales and distribution for computer products. ... That fancy glove work ultimately landed pugnacious HP in the winner's corner." (23)

When firms slug it out, some "get pummeled"; others "clobbered." (24) The weak end up "showing bruises." (25) However, no matter what the situation brings, it's expected that no competitor will "give up ... without a fight." (26)

Whether fighting among themselves or against foreign competition, says U.S. News & World Report, "America's toughest companies [are displaying] tenacity and innovation in beating up global foes." (27) In case its drift escapes its readers, the commentators make it abundantly clear: "The moral of these stories is simple: Getting tough is the only way to thrive in today's global market." (28)

Business gets bloodier than the boxing metaphor allows. In some accounts, savvy companies are metaphorically represented as bloodthirsty predators, searching for prey. A European firm is congratulated for having "a killer instinct for competition." (29) Airbus is depicted as "aiming at Boeing's jugular." (30) General Electric is "always prowling for new businesses" to expand into. (31) When it finds one, it strikes quickly and "gobble[s] up assets from weakened rivals." (32) These companies will kill for market share.

A normally conservative company (Corning), "which had been eyeing Damon for years, jumped in with a decisive strike -- a $401 million cash offer of its own. Done deal." (33) Counsels a broker in Business Week: "The people who can pounce first are going to make money." (34) Competition here is truly bloodthirsty. But the situation is praised for waking complacent corporations up. Says one CEO: "There's nothing like the survival mode to get humans moving." (35)

Killing for Market Share: The Old Paradigm in Business - Part 2/2

Credit: Wikinomics.com

(Concluded from Part 1.)

Sometimes even failing in the chase paid off. Dealmaker Samuel J. Heyman "never bagged his prey, but he pulled down about $500 million in profits from his investments," reported Business Week. We would be "hard put to find a dealmaker whose instincts were so beautifully in sync with the quick-buck mentality" of the times. (6)

The business environment is dog-eat-dog, "a cutthroat marketplace," (37) in which "we'd all kill for [profitable] savings." (38) Businessmen are warned: "He who hesitates is lunch." (39)

Scenarios are replayed in which readers are warned who is eating whose lunch: "Competition from the likes of Hewlett-Packard and Co. was eating CalComp's lunch," offered Electronic Business. (40) A senator fumes: "While the White House is debating ideology, other countries are eating our lunch." (41) Quipped a phone company ad: "In the 90s, let's do lunch may have a slightly different meaning." (42)

When metaphors of slugging it out or pouncing on prey did not get business's message across, the business process was compared to war. Said one "super-banker" of another: "We don't meet, we have battles." Here is Business Week's account of that "meeting."

"Bennett A. Brown ... the chairman of Citizens & Southern Corp. rejected a hostile takeover bid from NCNB Corp.... Even though [NCNB chairman Hugh L.] McColl [Jr.] told Brown that he had launched his missiles, the brash, acquisitive McColl backed off with uncharacteristic meekness." (43)

Explained Business Week: "Every day around the world, corporations do battle." (44) Among the trade warriors, "Japan is the force to beat." (45) Public attention was focused on the Japanese as "the world's most feared global competitor." (46) First American and later European corporations were reported to be "running scared. The reason: They fear an onslaught of competition, especially from the Japanese." It is left to a British union official to remind us of the fate of the weaker trade rival: "Everyone realizes only the fittest will survive." (47)

The U.S. electronics industry is "pinned down in the trenches of an economic battle, according to our troops in the R&D labs and engineering workplaces of America. And right now, the battle is going nowhere." (48) The U.S. semiconductor industry has been "driven to its knees by Japanese targeting of the industry." (49)

Credit: content.time.com

"Having softened up the U.S. semiconductor industry by sapping its profits with low-ball pricing, Japan's electronics giants are moving in for the kill. That's the alarmist view of the proposed takeover of Fairchild Semiconductor Corp. by Fujitsu Ltd." (50)

The American press watched for any sign of winning and leapt on it.

"At first glance, it would appear to be sweet revenge on the Japanese corporate titans that have been beating up on their North American and European counterparts. ... More Japanese companies fell off the [Business Week Global 1000] list than those of any other country." (51)

Domestically and internationally, said small-business author Jay Conrad Levinson, "it's a marketplace out there. In order to survive, let alone thrive and prosper, you've got to be a guerilla." For the "guerilla marketing attack," he offered "strategies, tactics, and weapons for winning big profits." (52) Levinson took Business Darwinism to its logical extremes and showed the doctrine's ultimate direction. According to him, business competitors were our enemies.

"You are surrounded. All around you are enemies vying for the same bounty. They're out to get your customers and your prospects, the good and honest people who ought to be buying what you're selling. These enemies are disguised as owners of small and medium-sized businesses.

"These enemies thrive on competition. They're out to get you and get you good. ... Your enemies mean business, your business, your profits." (53)

The businessman with the most powerful arsenal will win: "Your bank account will brim with profits in direct proportion to how your marketing arsenal brims with these weapons." (54)

Levinson supplies business with the marketing weapons to take to war: "[These] fundamentals for winning the battle for healthy, honest, and growing profits ... will serve you well on your way to the battlefield." (55)

Daily the skirmish reports and body counts roll in from feature wars, price wars, standards wars, PC wars, cola wars, and semiconductor wars. Said the executive VP of an industrial research firm: "We're seeing the industry move in such a way that these two big forces are going to be really fighting it out. ... The battle will take place on the fronts of 'audio, video, voice CD-ROM, stereo, mass storage'." (56)

The corporation was represented as being engaged in a "do-or-die marketing battle to win over increasingly sophisticated and demanding customers." (57) The fate to be avoided is "unconditionally surrendering the ... market" to the enemy (58) while the highest grace lay in emerging dominant. U.S. News & World Report observed: "Merely being competitive is not enough in today's global markets. Rather, [a firm's] long-term success will depend upon [its] domination of markets." (59)

Said Peter Cohen in The Gospel According to the Harvard Business School:

"Tomorrow is the future. We trained our business leaders to successfully wage its battles.

"World War III is going to be fought on the shelves of your neighborhood shopping center, and the Harvard Business School is a sneak preview of it. How its generals are prepared. The weapons and tactics they learn to use. How, fighting against each other, against humiliation and delusions of grandeur, they run each other down, yet somehow, desperately at times, seek to maintain at least the appearance of friendship. (60)

"This is an account of [the] education [of a class of 94 MBA students] to become lords over a new kind of army in a new kind of warfare, ready to take over from the military who have perfected their technology to the point where its use is guaranteed to leave nothing worth using it for. But since men will continue to be ambitious; since they will still want to be, they don't know what, except different, they will go on fighting for those things of which there aren't enough to go around -- money, love, land, praise, power and perquisites." (61)

"Epic tales are told around the campfire. Not all the participants are happy with the process.

"At the Vick School of Applied Merchandising: It was a gladiators' school we were in. Selling may be no less competitive now, but in the Vick program, strife was honored far more openly than today's climate would permit. Combat was the ideal - combat with the dealer, combat with the 'chiseling competitors,' and combat with each other. There was some talk about the 'team,' but it was highly abstract. Our success depended entirely on beating our fellow students, and while we got along when we met for occasional sales meetings the camaraderie was quite extracurricular.

"Slowly, as our sales-to-calls ratios crept up, we gained in rapacity. Somewhere along the line, by accident or skill, each of us finally manipulated a person into doing what we wanted him to do. Innocence was lost." (62)

The author also questioned the satisfaction that predatory competition brought its new entrants:

"The Harvard Business School's blind faith in competition alienates its students from one another, driving them to the destructive selfishness, the rugged individualism that, for too long, has been mistaken for a mainspring of progress." (63)

That was about as much lip service as "destructive selfishness" got but no truer words were spoken. The selfishness at the heart of Business Darwinism conditioned society for the final push that began with 9/11.

One might ask how much these metaphorical ways of speaking actually translated into business practices? Just as, upon listening to President Nixon on the Watergate tapes, our view of White House policy-making shifted, so our view of business's wisdom and maturity may also shift when we listen to the tapes presented at a trial between Bankers Trust and Procter & Gamble.

What the evidence (and other earlier examples of Bankers' shoddy practices) demonstrated was that ethics took a back seat to profiteering at the bank. In the Economist's account, the Business-Darwinist drift is plainly seen being translated into action.

"In January [1995] the bank settled a similar case with Gibson's Greetings, a card company, after internal tapes revealed the bank's employees giving the client false information about trades in 1993.

"Now BT has been shamed by further revelations about its derivatives sales practices in 1993-94, following a court ruling on October 3rd, which made public previously sealed documents and tapes relating to the P&G case. Astonishing comments by BT employees raise fresh concerns about the bank's culture at that time.

"Consider, for example, oral references by BT staff to a 'rip-off factor' that was attached to complex deals involving leveraged derivatives. One BT salesman describes how he would 'lure people into that total calm and then totally f*ck them.' Perhaps worst of all, a video shown to new employees includes a telling description by a BT instructor of how a swap works: he says that BT can 'get in the middle and rip them [the customers] off.'" Remembering that cameras were rolling, the instructor then apologises. (64)

Anyone not harmed by events could reflect on them philosophically, as Fortune Magazine did, capturing the mood of the times.

"The financial civil war that swept across America in the past decade was a ripsnorting string of shoot-'em-ups like nothing ever seen on Wall Street or Main Street. Withering volleys of money shot back and forth as insurgents stormed one entrenched corporate position after another." (65)

But the fact remains that getting tough with one's rivals, which would have been repulsive in a gangster, was made right and desirable in the predatory market environment of the 1985-95 period.

No quarter was given or expected. Getting your licks in, bagging prey, and blitzing one another were just good competitive practices.

Had these been two boxers fighting each other in the ring, perhaps matters might have stopped there. But these lean and mean contenders for the world title stripped millions from their payrolls to get into fighting trim. And they used any weapons they could find to achieve competitive advantage.

Many of those weapons were technological and meant that the employees so eliminated would never return. Thus, what was represented as being in America's interest may have been in the interest of CEO's who, like IBM's Aker, laid off 14,000 in 1990 and had his pay doubled to $2.2 million for (and I speculate) having "what it took to do what was needed." (66) But it was not in the interests of the wave of Americans who had to walk the plank.

An unbridled wave of global competition was initiated by following the tenets of a philosophy of predatory competition, a phenomenon which harmed workers in every country it affected. The leaders of business would have said that nothing could be done about it, that it was the market working itself out according to its own ineluctable laws.

However, there's nothing in any natural law that specifies the human community must operate this way. Their explanations, needless to say, were small comfort to the millions whose lives were, in this age of the smart machine, irreversibly impacted.

The Illuminati Economy - Part 1/4 - Introduction

Credit: dailyvoicenews.com

An excellent companion piece to this study is Matthew's latest Message (see below, at the end of this four-part series).

I've gotten requests again to continue developing the story of the economy in the recent past. Let me continue by delving into the Illuminati, after 9/11, as the channeled literature reveals them to us.

My purpose again is to show the depth of depravity our society has emerged from, to give us permission to cut our ties to the past and encourage us to create, invent and manifest the new.

We reached up till the end of the Nineties in our story earlier. The intentional bombing of the World Trade Center and the Pentagon marks the beginning of the end game out of which the Illuminati planned to dominate the world. One of their plans was to cause World War III, while they waited out a nuclear winter in their underground military bunkers.

They counted on there being 500 million people who'd survive above ground to serve as slaves for the Illuminati, much as the Sumerians, I believe, had been slaves to the Annunaki. Matthew Ward is our best source on the Illuminati.

The Illuminati began as a secret society. Many who do the bidding of those at the top, Matthew says, "may not even know the name Illuminati and have no idea that they are aiding ruthless exploiters of humanity." (1) His description of it is one of the best I've read:

"The Illuminati is not an organization of card-carrying members, but rather the 'umbrella' name of disparate groups and a large number of powerful individuals who have been controlling or heavily influencing the most important aspects of life throughout your world for centuries. In recent years they also have become known by other designations, such as the secret government, New World Order, dark cabal or the elitists; and they include the top figures in financial institutions, investment markets, multinational corporations, religions, education, media, military forces, judicial systems, entertainment, the medical 'establishment,' regulatory and advisory bodies, royal families, Zionists.

"They have controlled governments, started civil and international wars, caused famines and widespread impoverishment, created boom times for industrialists and depressions for the poor, released laboratory-designed viruses, assassinated opposition. They are the perpetrators of unjust laws, Satanic rituals, chemtrails and other toxic pollution, destruction of animal life on land and in the seas, mind control, the 'illegal' drug industry, erosion of civil rights and denial of God-given freedoms, suppression or misuse of technology, political and ideological divisiveness. In short, the Illuminati have been profoundly adversely affecting all life on Earth - indeed, the very life of Earth herself!" (2)

Matthew tells us that shortly after the colonies won their independence from British rule, European control crossed the Atlantic Ocean and infiltrated the nascent United States; and that country's 1913 Federal Reserve Act cemented the dark ones' hold on it and the international economy. (3)

He credits them with responsibility for every major conflict on the globe.

"The Illuminati 'operation,' you could say, has been responsible for all major wars, divisiveness, impoverishment and rampant deception and corruption for the past 265 years or so, after the name Illuminati came into being. It was devised by individuals in Bavaria who felt that they were the most intelligent, knowledgeable and capable persons in the world—the 'illuminated' ones—and in their self-aggrandizement, they felt entitled to control the lives of everyone else." (4)

He says they live off fear:

"The Illuminati require the energy of fear to keep refueling themselves; tyrannical regimes generate an enormous amount of fear, thereby serving Illuminati needs extremely well without any effort on their part. The high death toll in countries with brutal rulers is aligned with the Illuminati goal to reduce the world's population, and all wars serve that same purpose." (5)

Let's look at some of the Illuminati's actions to reduce the world's population and subjugate it. Matthew looks at their activities in agriculture:

"Shortages of corn, rice, grains, seafood and other foodstuffs being caused by any means, including the attempt to force on farmers genetically-altered seeds that produce crops without viable seeds for the next planting, are part of the dark plot to reduce the world's population; and the recent emphasis on ethanol as an alternative to gas for transportation fuel is but another part of that insidious plan." (6)

St. Germaine analyses how the Illuminati engineered a crisis in food, that's intentionally keeping millions in starvation. Here's his analysis of how it's being done:

- Central banks in every country are furiously printing money causing a general worldwide inflation causing prices to go up. The chief culprit of this printing mania is the US Federal Reserve as the US dollar is the de facto reserve currency and used to price most commodities on the world markets. So basically, there is too much money sloshing about the earth today with no place to go.
- World prices for essential food commodities such as rice, wheat, corn, cooking oil, meats etc. are unfortunately controlled by the worldwide casino known as the derivative or futures markets primarily located in Chicago and New York . These markets play with futures contracts, options, options on options and money.
- The excess amount of money sloshing about the earth is in the hands of a very few huge investors (hedge funds, pension funds, mutual funds and the like). Because of the downturn in other economic sectors such as the disastrous real estate market, this extra money is being poured into the food commodities derivative markets and thus causes futures contracts on food commodities to shoot up artificially. The amount of grains on the market is irrelevant.
- It is this excess money that is competing for limited numbers of grain futures contracts and options that is driving prices of food commodities. For example, Investor A owns a rice futures contract that bets rice will be $100 per ton in November. Investor B (with a lot of money in his pocket) will buy that contract from Investor A for $120.00 because he knows he can in turn sell the contract to Investor C for $150.00. So in this example, the price goes up $50.00 per ton without having any connection with the actual supply of rice on the ground.
- While this casino game is being played out, world-wide prices of grains and staple foodstuffs increase by the day, if not by the hour. Growers hold back releasing their crops because they think they will get more money if they wait. This then creates an artificial shortage on the market and increases the price even more. In the meantime, their storehouses are bulging waiting for the highest price for release onto the markets.
- In the meantime, billions of poor are being pushed to the brink of starvation. (7)

We'll have occasion to look at the derivatives crisis later. But let me say here that derivatives, also called credit default swaps, was the biggest scam ever floated by the cabal. It failed leaving banks and financial houses owing so much money ($200,000 for every man, woman and child on Earth) (8) that could never be paid back. Derivatives sit in off-ledger books, a ticking time bomb dooming the Illuminati economy.

The Illuminati Economy - Part 2/4 - The International Economy

Iloilo Airport where George Bush trans-shipped narcotics as head of special black ops

Let's start with the international economy generally.

The Illuminati manipulate it for their own enrichment, says Matthew Ward.

"The economy as reported is more myth than actuality. Only a comparative handful of people know how tenuous and corrupt the global economy is or that international trade and the stock markets are manipulated by the Illuminati, a group of darkly-inclined people who have passed their tight global reins from generation to generation.

"They have amassed vast fortunes through that control as well as by charging usurious bank loan rates and accruing mammoth amounts from their illegal drugs industry, and they use that money to buy governments; bankrupt countries and exploit their natural resources; keep billions of souls at barely subsistence level; and fund both sides in wars that they precipitate and perpetuate because from wars they derive handsome profits." (1)

They manipulated the poorer nations, installing dictators and lining their pockets with loans that the populace were expected to pay back.

"The illuminati's ... exploitation of natural resources worldwide will end. Since that power base is what enabled them to set government and banking policies and own multinational corporations, those corrupt controls also will end. The huge debts of the poorest nations were incurred by their state of desperation, often caused by Illuminati actions and influence; but the loans went to the despots ruling the countries and did not benefit the citizens, so those debts will be annulled and assistance given directly to the people.

"Many national borders have been set by the victors in war who wanted the natural resources, and that created 'have-nots' who formerly were 'haves.' When the LOVE in souls ends all conflicts, borders no longer will be cause for dispute because all peoples will be 'haves.'" (2)

The CIA has provided the Illuminati with muscle to control things like the international drug trade, to found terrorist groups that would attack the United States, and to stage false-flag operations like 9/11 and the London bombings. Matthew says:

"A large group within the CIA, which only superficially is an intelligence gathering agency to serve the security of the United States, is composed of Illuminati leaders and operators with diverse nationalities, political persuasions and belief systems, but with one aim: world domination." (3)

Keep in mind that George Bush Sr., later to be President of the United States, was CIA Director and later Vice President and used Ilopango Airport in El Salvador to trans-ship narcotics to America. Never mind the fact that he was born in Germany (and therefore ineligible to be President). (4)

Of CIA control of the drug trade, Alex Collier once wrote:

"We have known since the Sixties that the CIA has been trafficking narcotics. We know this. We have known that the CIA has been assassinating and overthrowing governments." (5)

Matthew Ward discussed it on many occasions. The drug trade finances "terrorists" and wars while the secret areas house buildings full of scientists doing heinous experiments.

"The enormously profitable illegal drug industry funds both factions' 'black ops,' including terrorist activities blamed on innocents and vast underground areas where their scientists conduct unconscionable experiments on humankind and develop spacecraft, weaponry, surveillance and weather-control systems using technology introduced by the 'Little greys.'" (6)

SaLuSa also commented on the situation:

"On a larger scale your money is siphoned off to fund black operations that have not been authorized by your government, and are often directed at you the people they should be serving. These situations have been going on unchecked for far too long, and with our allies who have our help we have made it clear we are going to put a stop to them. So you see, Dear Ones, we are working towards bringing about the changes needed." (7)

Despite the looting of the United States Treasury and nation and the treasuries of many other countries, Matthew reported that "the United States, considered the wealthiest country on the planet, was bankrupt." (8) He offered a description of the state of the American economy.

"Except at the higher levels, there is a perpetual cycle of investment and loss, rising prices and reduced or lost incomes. Property is being purchased with minimum down payments and low interest rates, and increasingly owners are losing their jobs and thence their homes.

"Unemployment figures are much higher than reported; corporate mergers that wipe out smaller businesses and theft by top management continue; and retirement funds have been stolen by the billions, creating financial hardship for people who depend upon those to sustain them after their working years.

"Whether out of necessity or frivolous spending, credit card use with its usurious interest rates adds to the worsening situation. Diverting your attention from these situations is the media's emphasis on trivial matters and entertainment and the meaningless promises of the two leading presidential candidates.

"Further, income tax laws allow great loopholes for the wealthiest while additionally burdening those who still have small incomes." (9)

Matthew asserts that "a severe imbalance like this cannot be sustained by individuals or a nation - and the imbalance WILL BE righted, do not doubt this! But in the short-term, financial situations will continue to deteriorate until reforms are in place to turn this around." (10)

And of course we see them deteriorating around us. Is this the crash of the world economy? No. Matthew describes the process that's actually happening right now:

"The foundation of the new system has been slid under the old so that when its collapse comes, the new foundation will be well established. That will enable the transition from the old system to the new to come about without the dam breaking, so to say." (11)

So this is the tightest place of all that we've had to encounter, the darkest part just before dawn. People are rankling under financial restrictions. Arguments are breaking out. This is exactly the time when all our valor is needed. And the essence of valor is to keep going.

Is that the only reason I'm writing this? To describe the Illuminati structure that's collapsing? No. I'm writing this to say: This is your government. This is the Illuminati economy. This structure contaminated and influenced every branch of economic analysis and financial activity.

The world of the past has nothing to offer this generation as it turns its attention to financial wayshowing.

The divine qualities are the only guide we'll need and the only guide that has never before in human history been tried, tested, or followed.

If you want to step out on the bridge that wasn't there a few minutes ago, saturate your financial wayshowing with the divine qualities.

The Illuminati Economy – Part 3/4 – Dooming the Economy

Divvying up the pie.

I said the matter better some years ago than I could do again, I think. So let me repost a synopsis of how and why the American Illuminati economy failed. This is a view from the ground. The Company of Heaven give the bird's-eye view.

What Factors Doomed the Economy

While Washington goes through the final act in a Kabuki play, pretending that the debt ceiling is the real problem for the American economy, I, though not an economist, believe the real problem goes much, much farther and is irreconcilable and irrecoverable.

Whether fast or slow, the American economy, as it's presently constituted, cannot avoid radical reform and reconstruction. Congress leaning to this side of the train or that side of the train, even if their intent was honorable, which in most cases it isn't, cannot stop a train headed for disaster.

Let's look at what trends and events doomed modern western economies generally and made the introduction of a new economic system inevitable.

Anyone who lived through the period can remember the malevolent trends and practices that led to many bubbles that sucked value out of our economies.

The junk-bond era, mergers and acquisitions, the dot.com bubble, just-in-time production, the mortgage and foreclosure scam, bank bailouts, and the derivatives debacle terminally weakened the structure of our economies.

One business analyst called them "Frankenderivatives." (1) The derivatives crisis doomed world finance by leaving nations with a debt load equivalent to $200,000 for every man, woman and child on the planet, something that could never be paid off no matter what strategy was adopted. (2)

The depredations of currency traders, investment houses and economic hitmen on the economies of the developing world often saw their currencies collapse and their resources taken in payment for debt loads that had been manufactured in the first place and forced upon them by unscrupulous parties. (3)

The computer (the silicon chip having been salvaged from the Roswell crash of an alien spacecraft) (4) eliminated work and saw a whole generation of young people denied entry-level employment.

Many firms which had vertical structures were now hollowed out. They became horizontal structures with no chance for advancement. Many full-time, permanent employees became contract labor, with pension and benefit plans eliminated, unions busted, etc.

The shipping out of jobs to overseas low-wage countries where labor was unprotected saw much work lost to western nations and workers in the new manufacturing nations exploited and subjected to anti-labor practices by firms with foreign ownership.

Government funds were siphoned off. Governments and their agencies entered into criminal enterprises such as terrorist training at institutions like the School of the Americas, sex slavery and drug importation by agencies like the CIA and large private corporations. The funds were used in black projects such as staged false-flag attacks.

These included the Oklahoma City bombing, 9/11, the London bombings, and many other smaller "terrorist" attacks, Mind-controlled assassins ("Manchurian candidates") were responsible for individual shootings, etc. (5)

The CIA was running drugs through Ilopango Airport in El Salvador under Director George Bush Sr. and bringing them in through Governor Bill Clinton's Mena Airport in Arkansas, murdering DEA agents who opposed them and their own CIA operatives who threatened to blow the whistle. (6)

Funds generated were also used to bribe, coerce, or take over the mass media so that nothing of these events ever surfaced. And to suborn one Congress after another. And even the Supreme Court.

It therefore comes as no surprise to hear that shiploads of gold and platinum and other forms of wealth were sunk in ships off the Asian coast to be resurrected if the time were to arrive when the financial elite were in total control of the world. (7) Of course that day will never come, but the wealth will be put to good use - the common good, that is, in a commonwealth.

And it seems a fitting end to hear that gold bars stored in various repositories around the world have been swapped for tungsten bars coated in gold. Even the very standard of value in western economies was debased and lost.

The economies of the West, subjected to such forces, have not been able to retain robustness, initiative, or moral strength. They devolved into a force that simply preyed upon anyone vulnerable, including their own. Everyone was considered someone else's "lunch." There wasn't even honor among thieves - especially among thieves - and we're now seeing the result.

So there's no going back for the leading economies of the world. It isn't that the new abundance program once known as NESARA (after the American National Economic Security and Reformation Act) is likely to be introduced. (8) There's no alternative to a new economy running along its lines and there never will be as long as the same financial forces who so sapped our economies remain at its helm.

It isn't a case of how we'll revive an economy that's been dead for some time now. We cannot revive a dead patient with economic CPR. There's no other way forward than to introduce a new economy based upon the ethical lines that NESARA is.

I'd most like to see the ending of the discussion of how to get this economic show back on the road. The only road the present Illuminati economy will take is the short and direct road to the ash heap of history.

But there's much room for economists and analysts to look into what the contours would be of an economy that works for everyone. To hear about that I'm a willing - nay, an eager - listener.

The Illuminati Economy - Part 4/4 - Their Downfall

Illuminati gold will be redistributed. Credit: www.mxtrade.com

St. Germaine told the Illuminati centuries ago what future awaited them:

"The ones who have been holding the financial power, you're going to see them desperately trying to get it, trying to take it back, trying to manipulate it. ... Don't feel sorry for them one bit. ... They knew it was coming.

"In the 1500s, in the 1700s and late in the 1900s, we had some, what you would call, very multidimensional, very spiritual, mystical discussions with these groups who have held the power. We showed them what would come. They did not believe it. It caused them to hold on more desperately to the power and now it's here.

"So there is a level at which they knew it was coming." (1)

How has the Company of Heaven been proceeding against the dark? One way is to intercept their money flows and take them back for abundance. Matthew describes one action being taken:

"ET technology will be directed at electronic issues wherein money movement will not go the way the dark forces intend and undetectable glitches in their communication efforts will create confusion and errors. I am not speaking 'out of school' here as the dark forces are aware that this has started happening and they cannot locate the origins or detect and correct the flaws. This adds to their fear that they are losing control and their activities will become even more clumsy and obvious until all is 'brought to light.'" (2)

"The Illuminati's illegally and immorally garnered fortunes will be put [back] into circulation," Matthew tells us. (3)

"The vast fortunes immorally and illegally amassed by various Illuminati members and institutions they control will be recovered and distributed on a global basis to the neediest among you, the billions who have been the most exploited and ignored by the greediest; and fair taxation and lending rates will replace the current ones until you reach the consciousness level where money no longer is an issue at all." (4)

SaLuSa tells us much the same:

"Your world affairs are dominated by the financial crisis, but we see the outcome as helping remove members of the Illuminati who have not only monopolised monetary policies, but manipulated them to their advantage.

"Some of the biggest crimes against humanity are in this connection. Your money has been stolen either directly or indirectly, and lined the pockets of those who have set themselves at the top of the pyramid. The wealth of the world will be taken back and fairly distributed, and all shall enjoy a satisfactory life where you no longer have poverty or slavery." (5)

Back in 2004, Matthew was advising lightworkers that the release of abundance funding would be delayed, but to be patient.

"Mother, twice recently you have been asked by individuals about matters related to money, and in both cases I replied that a renewed and stronger attack on all avenues of funding for light services and products has been initiated by the dark forces. I advised the requestors' that anticipated funding would be delayed, but to keep focused positively and eventually the money would be available." (6)

Where is the money and gold coming from that will bring abundance to the planet? Some of it is coming from other planets. I interviewed St. Germaine on the subject in 2012:

Steve Beckow: St. Germaine, there's even talk of gold being brought from other planets....

St. Germaine: You are correct, and there are also minerals that have been placed upon your planet by your star brothers and sisters that are far more valuable than gold. They just have not been discovered or detected yet. And that is to come. But that is not part of the Trust that I am speaking of. It is ancillary.

SB: All right. And palladium and vanadium I think are two of those metals, are they not?

St. G: Yes, as well as serenium.

SB: Serenium? The last two are metals we haven't discovered yet, I think.

St. G: The last three are metals you haven't discovered. (7)

There's even gold that the Illuminati have secreted in sunken battleships. Overall, there's more gold than we can imagine.

Steve Beckow: And of course there's the gold that's sunk in battleships.

St. Germaine: Yes.

SB: So there's a lot of gold on this planet. Is that correct?

St. G: There is more gold than you can imagine. And there is certainly more gold — think of it as currency — there is certainly more gold than has been assumed. There are caches of gold that have been placed there all over the grid. And sometimes the gold has been hidden in very plain sight. (8)

SaLuSa assures us that "in time the wealth of the world will be properly shared for the good of all." He reminds us that "your present times are the result of deliberate plans by the Illuminati, to create friction through lack and make you reliant on them for your existence." (9)

The world will become a true commonwealth and a pristine environment, Matthew suggests.

"Not only will the Illuminati money be distributed wherever the need is greatest, but their control of natural resources will [stop], as will the wanton destruction of the environment through oil and gas extraction, mining, logging and pollution. Technologies now suppressed and the more advanced technologies that will be introduced by your universal brothers and sisters will clear the pollution and provide renewable energy and building materials." (10)

SaLuSa also gives us a picture of their plans for this world.

"So many of you are experiencing difficulties in your lives that the Abundance Programs would help. I want to tell you that, in the near future, poverty will be eradicated from Earth, and the wealth mainly secreted away by the Illuminati will be reclaimed and redistributed for the good of all. Financial Institutions will be re-modelled to cater for a new society that has set greed and corruption aside." (11)

Therefore the Illuminati will be deprived of their wealth and, with it, their power. Their wealth will be redistributed among the people of the world. National debts for "foreign-aid" loans which merely lined the pockets of dictators will be cancelled. And abundance will be spread out over the globe until eventually everyone has what they need to live, learn, and evolve.

There's no usefulness to be found in following the financial ways of the past. The last economy that worked even a bit was in the Fifties through Seventies. Every economy since then has been too corrupted to emulate.

The path for us starts at the trailing edge of our leading foot. The bridge that wasn't there a minute ago appears when we step out into the unknown. In your financial wayshowing, don't look back. Leave the past behind. Look ahead and invent, create, and inspire.

Matthew's Message via Suzy Ward, July 19, 2015

(Excerpt only.)

With loving greetings from all souls at this station, this is Matthew. Many of your analysts think that the Greek people's resounding "No" on the recent referendum put their country on the road to irreversible economic ruin. The country will manage. "No" put the Illuminati on the road to irreversible economic ruin.

Going back a long, long ways, bartering worked splendidly in communities, but the expanding borders of commerce required a different means of exchange; and with the introduction of coinage, money became the axis on which your world turned. The forerunners of the Illuminati and later that group itself controlled the turning by devising taxation, banking and lending systems; and, as centuries passed, "numbered" bank accounts, stock markets, Federal Reserve System, International Monetary Fund, regulating agencies and credit cards with usurious interest rates. Everything they established was specifically designed to add to their fortunes, tighten their economic control over the peoples, and increase their influence within national governments.

The Illuminati began as a cohesive group of like-minded individuals whose objective was world domination. As time went by, egos grew and tempers flared, and eventually two competitive factions with that same goal emerged. Later, the Rothschilds and their adherents, who operate out of London and the Vatican, came up with a plan to solidify their control throughout Europe—the European Union, European Central Bank and euro currency. Let us borrow your expression, "How's that working for you?" There is no bandage large enough to patch the crack the Greek vote made in the Rothschild network. The crack will spread like a spider web around the world and into it will fall the Rockefeller faction headquartered in Washington, DC, and on Wall Street.

As if that isn't enough for both factions to deal with—and Pope Francis' goodness and wisdom keeps upsetting their apple cart—now there's the agreement between negotiators from several major nations and Iran's leaders that their country will not pursue development of a nuclear weapon. It is no surprise that Israeli Prime Minister Netanyahu, a top-ranking Illuminati, denounced the agreement or that Illuminati in the United States Congress and members whose election campaigns were funded by that group are opposing President Obama's efforts to get congressional approval. They want to invade Iran and, along with taking over that country's oil, reap the riches that come from producing the machinery of war.

The vibrations of intensifying light that led to those reversals for the Illuminati will keep increasing as the planet continues on its ascension course. If we could tell you when their total undoing will be, we would do so joyously; but activity in Earth's energy field of potential indicates that their inevitable demise will come in stages, not one fell swoop. They still have some power, dwindling though it is, in their "black ops" branch of the CIA; other intelligence sources, including Mossad; high-ranking personnel in some military forces; leverage within mainstream media and some governments; and huge caches of monies to initiate or exacerbate uprisings, fund the Islam State, and pay their minions to hack computer systems, oversee the street drug trade, fill your skies with chemtrails, deny pollution's contribution to climate change, or disseminate false information on the Internet.

While a few within the higher ranks of both Illuminati factions are talking with principals in reform movements, the hardliners are talking about joining forces; some have abandoned their fast-sinking ship, died of natural causes or by their own hand, or been arrested. You would recognize some names, most you would not, and it is unlikely that any of the Illuminati will be identified as such in mainstream news reports.

Upheavals will keep popping up as the ages-old light vs dark battle for Earth's civilization at last is nearing its end. You have waited a long time to see the light triumph as predestined, and you can welcome the bumpy ride through the last phases. However, most of the populace don't know about that long conflict or that everything transpiring and what is ahead is about planetary and personal ascension out of millennia of dark bondage.

Many people are fearful or angry, and with each new bump, others will have the same reactions. Your calmness, yet excitement, and explaining to the extent individuals are receptive can encourage them to have an optimistic outlook. But please do not be disheartened if family and friends don't respond positively—they will waken in their own times of readiness.

And, we ask that you keep foremost in your thoughts that every person in your world is a part of God, by whatever name the Supreme Being in this universe is called. Every person is inextricably connected at soul level with all others, and God's love for each and every one is unconditional. Seeing "offenders" through God's eyes doesn't mean wanting them to forego justice by your world's standards—already this has come to some and shall befall others. What it does mean is, you will uplift yourselves and your world by envisioning those individuals within the light rather than focusing on their punishment. The impartial, nonjudgmental and unavoidable laws of the universe will serve them justice in a spirit world according to their lifetime deeds.

LOVE and PEACE

Will the Economy Collapse?

Credit: Veterans Today

Illuminati structures are falling all over the planet and no statistic tells the story in sharper detail than the deaths that are occurring in key cabal areas.

The Illuminati appear to be taking down anyone who could do further damage to them. The number of bankers and scientists who've died in the recent past (going on statistics from, mid-2013 in the case of bankers; from 2014 in the case of scientists) seems to tell the story.

Approximately 65 bankers have died in suspicious circumstances since that time, from being rammed by cars while riding a bicycle, to hearts suddenly stopping, (1) to leaping - or being pushed - from buildings. (2)

One banker is said to have "died from seven or eight self-inflicted wounds from a nail gun fired into his torso and head." (3)

I don't know about you, but if I received one wound in my finger from a nail gun, I'd be totally incapacitated. I'm not sure how a person could shoot seven or eight nails into his torso and then his head. But these reports are published without comment or question.

Approximately 74 scientists have died in the past two years. (4) Some have been tropical disease experts (AIDS, Ebola); others working on high-security projects; others working on space-related projects. Some have been people who began to suspect that they were working on black projects and tried to withdraw, only to be killed.

We know that many pandemics (AIDS, Ebola, SARS, swine flu, avian flu, etc.) were created by the black ops folks at Fort Detrick. (5) Are these deaths an attempt to prevent whistle-blowing or hide past sins?

Many commentators look at the chaos and turmoil that's occurring and predict the complete collapse of society or the economy. Here's an example: Jim Rickerts claiming to speak with the sanction of every national-security agency in the U.S. Put your shields up before watching.

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=9lcNrJVlgb8>

Is our society or the economy going to collapse? The answer, according to our sources, is no.

A distinction must be made between the collapse of the Illuminati structures and the collapse of social and economic structures generally. Jesus said last summer that "the final wars and conflicts [will] enter into a phase of self-destructive collapse or melt-down from which [the cabal] will not recover." (6) We're in that phase now, but it doesn't mean that everything will fall.

To the largest extent, institutions will be reformed, as Archangel Michael discusses here:

"I am not speaking of the collapse of financial systems, which would cause panic and disarray. But what we are talking about is reorganization.

"Now, usually reorganization is a bureaucratic term for shuffling the deck with the same cards. That is not what I am referring to. We are talking about reorganization of financial systems — political financial systems, bureaucratic financial systems, global financial systems — that are becoming more congruent with the divine qualities of equity, of fairness, of ethical behavior, of charity, of prudence, and of becoming." (7)

Matthew Ward explained that the foundations of the new economy are already laid under the foundations of the old.

"The global economy, which is a product of smoke and mirrors, to use your term, is irreparable. The foundation of the new system has been slid under the old so that when its collapse comes, the new foundation will be well established. That will enable the transition from the old system to the new to come about without the dam breaking." (8)

He reassured us that those who'll direct the new economy are ready to take the helm.

"The teeter-tottering of the international economy cannot be sustained much longer, nor can the history of its control by the Illuminati's illegal manipulations remain hidden much longer. They are using obscure legal processes to hold onto their ill-gotten fortunes. Thus we cannot tell you when the economic collapse will come.

"However, the time cannot be far off because many nations are bankrupt or on the verge, and their leaders and economists know that there is no financial backing for the daily computer transactions in the trillions of dollars and other currencies.

"When the collapse does come, welcome it in the knowledge that those who will direct the new system are at the ready and during the transition will keep financial disruptions to a minimum. You can lessen the anxiety of those around you by remaining positive, and you can do that confidently, knowing that Earth's Golden Age is right around the corner." (9)

SaLuSa offered a similar picture.

"Already the foundations are in place for a quick change, where your financial systems are concerned. Our allies in many countries are agreed on a plan for a metals-backed currency, and the end of the paper currency that has led you into bankruptcy." (10)

At the end of 2012, he said:

"Your present government, along with others largely in your Western World, are near to being replaced and it is an important move that will enable so many other things to go forward. They cannot handle the present crisis brought about by the collapse of a number of banks, and the corrupt systems used by them to bolster their own profits through false trading

"The answers are already known to us, and the new ways are prepared and ready for implementation at very short notice." (11)

And finally Saul encouraged us not to feel despondent at the changes that are occurring.

"Do not become upset as the markets flounder and then founder, as this will only be a temporary destabilization which is a necessary precursor to the establishment of the new worldwide monetary and financial system. The new system will enable the distortions and errors — which the inadequacies of your present system allowed and encouraged — to be set to rights. Then, true global cooperation of a completely harmonious nature, and that is good for all and good for the planet, will be possible and will come into operation.

"As economic stability returns, safety valves will be installed to ensure that the liquidity of the financial system can no longer be threatened or drained away by unseen or unexpected leaks." (12)

So the fall of the Illuminati economy has been planned and is being carried out. But that doesn't mean the fall of the international economy generally. The foundations of the new economy have been laid and its leaders are ready to take charge quickly and ease the new economy into operation. The new economy will solve the problems that have plagued us for so many decades and reverse the trend of concentrating money in ever fewer hands.

I Accuse (2008)

Many of us would rather concentrate on the planetary shift in consciousness. But there's a little left to do.

We must make sure that those who speak out on our behalf and risk all are protected - and we are their protectors. Awareness is a pre-requisite for intelligent action and hence I repost this article. Not because I want to direct your attention to the negative things in the world, but because I want to stir us to protect our defenders.

I Accuse

<http://www.opednews.com/articles/I-Accuse-by-Steve-Beckow-081018-7.html>

The daily economic bloodletting we're witnessing around us is not solely the result of the fall of the U.S. subprime market or of the U.S. banking sector generally, as some would have us believe. It's not solely the result of the global market's loss of confidence in worthless commercial paper and bundled debt.

Rather, what we're seeing is the end result of a long period of political and financial manipulation by a global elite known to themselves as the "Illuminati" (though none are illuminated) and the "New World Order."

They're responsible for what Michel Chossudovsky called "the worldwide scramble to appropriate wealth through 'financial manipulation' [which] is the driving force behind this crisis. It is the source of economic turmoil and social devastation." (1)

Perhaps, in the face of the global financial meltdown, we're now ready to hear the truth about them, where for years we've thought that truth fantastic or conspiratorial.

President Eisenhower warned the world against them in his "Farewell Address to the Nation" on January 17, 1961. He called them the "military-industrial complex."

"In the councils of government, we must guard against the acquisition of unwarranted influence, whether sought or unsought, by the military-industrial complex. The potential for the disastrous rise of misplaced power exists and will persist. We must never let the weight of this combination endanger our liberties or democratic processes.

"We should take nothing for granted. Only an alert and knowledgeable citizenry can compel the proper meshing of the huge industrial and military machinery of defense with our peaceful methods and goals so that security and liberty may prosper together." (2)

<http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=KCRDp4OF5lg>

Start at 1:01.

Only a matter of months later, President John F. Kennedy also warned us against them, calling them a "secret society":

"We are opposed around the world by a monolithic and ruthless conspiracy that relies primarily on covert means for expanding its sphere of influence, on infiltration instead of invasion, on subversion instead of elections, on intimidation instead of free choice, on guerrillas by night instead of armies by day.

"It is a system which has conscripted vast human and material resources into the building of a tightly-knit, highly-efficient machine that combines military, diplomatic, intelligence, economic, scientific and political operations.

"Its preparations are concealed, not published. Its mistakes are buried, not headlined. Its dissenters are silenced, not praised. No expenditure is questioned. No rumor is printed. No secret is revealed." (3)

<http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=xhZk8ronces>

This global elite conducts its business through organizations like the Bilderberg, the Trilateral Commission, and the Council on Foreign Relations.

Some say it's centered in the United States; others in Europe. It includes among its numbers an unlikely coalition of people from all backgrounds - ex-Nazis sit down with Jews in their deliberations as well as some members of European royalty, etc. It's ruthless in its methods. Most of us have no idea of the formidable opponent it represents to the freedom-loving society that we profess to uphold. Our very naivete and complacency are what make it strong.

The Illuminati have infiltrated and exert varying degrees of control over armed forces, intelligence agencies, police forces, government departments, banks, financial houses, the media, and other institutions.

Today they're called the "deep state" and "shadow" or "secret government." Opposing them cost President Kennedy his life and many other brave men and women their lives as well.

Some of their war crimes and crimes against humanity have been exposed and condemned in international tribunals such as the International Criminal Tribunal for Afghanistan. (4) Others are currently being investigated by such panels as the Steering Committee to Pursue the Prosecution for War Crimes of President Bush and culpable high-ranking aides after they leave office, Jan. 20, 2009. (5)

Their reach is global and tenacious. It's imperative that we unmask this secret state and, through legal and non-violent means, overturn it. The first step in doing that is to catalogue as many of their crimes as are known. Hopefully this will assist those who are planning to prosecute President Bush and other members of the cabal.

The crimes listed below are known to me. Others could probably add many more to the list and I invite them to do so.

I accuse this "secret state" of knowingly and collectively:

1. Causing the implosion of several national economies (Thailand, Korea, Indonesia, Japan, and Russia) decades ago through stock market speculation and manipulation.
2. Causing further financial hardship to those countries, through the IMF and World Bank, by imposing terms on them that enriched American financial houses under the cover of helping the affected nations to regain their economic stability.
3. Reducing the Western workforce to penury by destroying millions of jobs through predatory automation, lowering wages, diminishing benefits, and eliminating pensions.
4. Further impoverishing the Western workforce through the relocation of factories to low-wage areas of the globe and the offshore outsourcing of many of the jobs that remained.
5. Enforcing or reinforcing near-slave-labour conditions in the states to which those factories were relocated.
6. Blowing up the Murrah Federal Building in Oklahoma City on April 19, 1995, claiming 168 lives and injuring over 800 others, to win congressional support for the Counter-Terrorism Bill.
7. Blowing up World Trade Centers 1, 2 and 7 and the Pentagon on Sept. 11, 2001; murdering passengers on airliners; and blaming "Muslim terrorists" for what they themselves engineered; the official death toll for which was 2,974 people, but the unofficial death toll for which is probably upwards of 10,000.
8. Creating a blanket of poisonous materials that would in time claim the lives of tens of thousands of New Yorkers from respiratory and other complications and illnesses.

9. Creating and operating a fraudulent 9/11 Commission to whitewash events and conceal the true identity of the perpetrators.
10. Using weather weapons (HAARP) to cause worldwide flooding, earthquakes, and hurricanes, most notably, I believe, the 2008 Sichuan earthquake that killed 69,200 people and injured above 300,000.
11. Possibly triggering the 2004 tsunami by allegedly setting off an underwater thermonuclear blast that killed more than 225,000 people.
12. Using an ultra-low frequency (ULF) device located at nearby Augsburg College to destroy the I35 Minnesota River Bridge, killing thirteen people and injuring 145.
13. Causing murderous wars in the Balkans (1999), Afghanistan (2001) and Iraq (2003) to extend their global influence, secure oil, and ensure control of the Afghan drug trade.
14. Using depleted-uranium weapons in these wars, causing countless horrible birth deformities and numerous deaths of both local civilians and Coalition soldiers, and turning the affected countries into what some observers call "radioactive wastelands."
15. Releasing tons of lethal depleted uranium into the atmosphere from these and other wars to circle the globe and inflict pain and death on countless faraway victims.
16. Siphoning off trillions of dollars from the American people through direct theft, as reported for instance by Defence Secretary Donald Rumsfeld on Sept. 10, 2001, and corrupt Iraqi "reconstruction" arrangements from 2003 to the present.
17. Using armed forces and intelligence agencies to smuggle drugs (in medivacs, false coffins, body bags, etc.) and oversee the international drug trade (Honduras, Kosovo, Afghanistan, etc.) to raise money for "black operations."
18. Funding numerous terrorist groups around the world, including Al-Qaida.
19. Torturing opponents, both at home and abroad, in prisons run by and for Americans.
20. Creating private armies like Blackwater.
21. Subverting the American Constitution by eliminating constitutional safeguards on civil rights.
22. Corrupting existing police and armed forces and using them for criminal purposes.
23. Running an extensive program of citizen surveillance.
24. Creating deep underground military bunkers (DUMBs) and above-ground detention facilities to jail dissident citizens.
25. Corrupting the mainstream media and enforcing a rigid censorship.

26. Manufacturing infertile genetically-engineered seeds, making farmers dependent on agricompanies for future seeds, to control world prices, contributing to the suicide of thousands of bankrupted farmers in India.

27. Withholding from the world beneficial technologies derived from salvaged spacecraft and using them instead for profit and for promoting their agenda of global domination.

28. Assassinating opponents like President John F. Kennedy, Secretary of the Navy James Forrestal, ex-CIA Director William Colby, Congressman Paul Gilmor, and whistleblowers Phillip Schneider and William Cooper.

29. Murdering Stanley Meyer, inventor of a water-fuelled car that would have ended transportation's dependence on fossil fuels.

30. Pursuing an agenda of global depopulation aimed at bringing Earth's population to a controllable level of 500 million.

31. Seeding the atmosphere with chemtrails containing barium and depleted uranium, thereby causing the death of unknown numbers of victims from Morgellons Disease and other ailments.

32. Planning and trying to instigate a nuclear war between the West and Russia and China.

It's time to expose this global elite for the ruthless killing machine it is. They've taken us close to World War III. They've murdered us in the thousands and millions and plan to continue to do so if we don't stop them.

I don't propose acting violently or illegally. Our legal institutions are capable of overturning them if we, the citizens of the world, join together and express our desire that their rule end.

I ask the world community, at every level and in every form of organization, to refuse any longer to tolerate the abuses of the Illuminati or to submit to their agenda of global warfare, depopulation, and enslavement.

Let's be sure, from this day forward, that they're aware that we know their plans and that we won't permit them to succeed.

Editor's Note: The article entitled, "J'Accuse" (French for 'I accuse'), was originally an open letter published on January 13, 1898 in the newspaper L'Aurore by the influential writer Émile Zola. The letter was addressed to President of France Félix Faure, and accused the government of anti-Semitism and the unlawful jailing of Alfred Dreyfus, a French General Staff officer sentenced to penal servitude for life for espionage. Zola pointed out judicial errors and lack of serious evidence. The letter was printed on the first page of the newspaper, and caused a stir in France and abroad. Zola was prosecuted and found guilty of libel on February 23, 1898. To avoid imprisonment, he fled to England, returning home in June 1899.

Past Tense, Future Perfect

After 9/11, it's my personal view that the Illuminati, who'd been planning a takeover of the world since centuries ago, grew careless because they believed they'd achieved or would soon achieve their goals.

They'd sold us on their scenarios that they'd planned since the Seventies: first the Cold War, then terrorists, then rogue nations, then asteroids, and finally extraterrestrials. These "threats" would be used to stampede the world's population into giving more and more of their civil rights away to their corrupted governments.

They were adept at using weather-warfare weapons like HAARP to redirect hurricanes like Hurricane Kathrina, cause earthquakes as in Haiti, Chile and New Zealand, spark forest fires, and many other acts of aggression against their own population and others around the world.

They produced pandemic viruses out of Fort Detrick and seeded the skies with chemtrails, sickening the world. The vaccines they offered were also toxic.

They were behind white-slavery rings, pedophilia, snuff flicks, and the international drug trade. The latter they used to finance their black projects. Government agents, like the DEA's Enrique "Kiki" Camarena, who were guilty of doing their job, were tortured and murdered probably by or at the instigation of their own country's corrupted agents.

Dr. Carol Rosin exposes the Illuminati agenda

The Illuminati captured governments, religions, education, medicine, etc.

They had a significant presence in the military. They hadn't captured it completely by any means but they believed they held the upper hand. The white hats in the military (primarily the Navy) ended up taking command of Solar Warden (the secret space fleet) as well as significant arms of the military such as Northern Command.

And, relevant to us as financial wayshowers, they captured business, commerce, banking and other areas of the economy.

I believe that, because they saw their march forward to world control and even mastery of the universe (through Solar Warden) as assured, they ceased to care about being meticulous. Pedophile parties in Washington, mortgage-tranching in the foreclosure scam, attempts to transport a nuclear bomb to the Middle East to be used against Iran - these are examples of Illuminati initiatives which were intercepted or foiled. The Illuminati began to look inept.

However all this was as nothing compared to what the unseens were doing, which you won't find in insider or whistleblower accounts. The galactics refused to allow the explosion of a nuclear bomb on the Earth or in space. They gathered evidence on the Illuminati to close the trap on them through legal means. They've caused ISIS's heavy machinery (tanks and trucks) not to function.

And they watch every move the Illuminati makes, allowing small-scale acts that they cannot interfere with according to the laws of freewill and karma, but preventing large-scale acts of terrorism.

The most horrendous act would have been the starting of World War III, which the Illuminati labored to ignite. They built deep, underground military bunkers to last out the nuclear winter that would follow, which the galactics destroyed in 2011. Now the Illuminati had to face what everyone else would in the event of a nuclear winter.

The galactics neutralized pandemic viruses, their vaccines and chemtrails. They intercepted money bound for Illuminati coffers and returned it to safekeeping until abundance can be spread to the world. They're at work cleaning the oceans up after the oil spills from various Illuminati companies.

This is the past we're leaving behind.

On the one hand, our entire culture from this era is tainted and doesn't supply us with rich material upon which to base what comes next.

On the other hand, the Company of Heaven has provided us with rich material upon which to base our new financial and economic structures. And we ourselves come with a genetic and spiritual inheritance that equips us as well to lead in what comes next.

By now many of us have emerged from our constructed selves - our social masks, acts, routines, numbers, etc. Many of us have had the really-troublesome core issues raised and released.

It's we ourselves that we have to fall back on. And, in my view, that is enough.

What's been raised in us over the years has been love and compassion. That's why we're about to be entrusted as stewards of the Divine Mother's abundance.

Archangel Michael often says not to look back to the old Third. It won't assist us very much to look back on the past at all, except as an object lesson in what to avoid.

We've been tasked with creating a new future.

The sacred money that we'll be working with will relieve stress in as many folks as we can reach and open up the door of opportunity. How we do our jobs will evolve if we just start in and craft and create as things unfold.

We're richly and generously guided. And we have a mastery within us that's only now starting to be revealed. The past has been tense but the future looks perfect.

I find the prospect of starting in when all the obstacles are out of the way exciting, inspiring, and energizing.
