The Michaelangelo Fund

The purpose of the Michaelangelo Fund is to fund the rebuilding of local, national, and international communities and infrastructure in areas not covered by G/NESARA (the Global and National Economic and Security Reformation Act).

We'll start with our immediate locale, the City of Vancouver and work out the details.

We'll rebuild the social safety net that existed prior to the Recession of 1982.

We'll provide employment for local people by rebuilding local parks, funding schools and universities, ensuring adequate salaries for teachers, doctors, and nurses, sponsoring school sports, funding school lunch programs, rebuilding roads and bridges, and other projects and services.

The "Vancouver Project" will be our first venture. Following that, we'll extend our work to the Province of British Columbia and, after that, to Indian reservations and the Dominion of Canada.

After that, we go international.

Steve Beckow, CEO

Steve Beckow began his career as a cultural historian with the National Museum of Man and ended it as a Member of the Immigration and Refugee Board of Canada.

He's a member of Mensa Canada and a winner of Canada Council Grants.

He's been the owner and editor-in-chief of the online Golden Age of Gaia since 2009, for which he writes a daily column.

Steve's vision is of a world that works for everyone. He's written or compiled around 120 books on how to make that vision a reality.

His philanthropy is designed to turn cities into gardens and schools into groves of academe, with no want, homelessness, or disease.
